We extend to the democratic congress and president our heart-felt grat-itude for the many expressions of good will to the people of Utah; in the pas-age of the liberal enabling act; in re-storing to the Mormon church its conliscated property; in opening the Indian reservations for settlement; in the wise appointment of bona fide citizens of Utah to local offices; in the extensive grants of land for various public pur-poses; in the enfranchisement of hundreds of our citizens by the provis-ions of the enabling, act and by the more recent amnesty proclamation of President Cleveland, all of which acts of friendship are in striking contrast to the treatment accorded Utah by the republican party.

Proudly we point to the record of our line, whose untiling real, great ability, tact and diplomacy have secured to us so many acts beneficial to Utah. His indefatigable labor and unparalleled success will surely be approved and re-warded by his return to congress with the democratic congress and administration for the measure of tariff reform effected, whereby hundreds of millions of collars will be saved annually to people of this country. Obstructed as they were at every move by determined opposition, they nevertheless succeeded in wresting from wealth and plutocracy a portion of the means of increasing their fil-gotten gains, and in rendering McKinleyism a lost cause. SIGNING THE DECLARATION

Flies Pestered the Fathers of the Republic as They Created It. Jefferson was fond of telling a story which illustrates in a forcible manner the importance that absurdly insignificant matters may sometimes assume When the deliberative body that gave the world the Declaration of Independence was in session, its proceedings were conducted in a hall close to which was situated a livery stable. The weather was warm, and from the stable came swarms of flies that lighted on the legs of the honorable members, and biting through the thin silk stockings then in fashion gave infinite annoyance. It was no uncommon sight, said Jefferson, to see a member making a speech with a large handkerchief in hand and pausing at every moment to thrash the flies from his thinly protected culves. The opinion of the body was not Relying upon the fidelity, intelligence and patriotism of the people of Utah county we confidently expect by their votes a complete vindication of the document, and, under other circumstances, discussion might have been protracted for days, if not weeks, but the flies were unanimous in favor of the document, days, if not weeks, but the flies were intolerable. Efforts were made to find another hall, free from the pests, but in vain. As the weather became warmer the flies grew worse, and the flapping of handkerchiefs was heard all over the hall as an accompaniment to the voices

In despair at last some one suggested that matters be hurried, so that the body might adjourn and get away from the flies. There were a few mild protests, but no one heeded them, the immortal declaration was hurriedly copied, and, with handkerchiefs in hand fight ing flies as they came, the members nastened up to the table to sign the authentic copy and leave the flies in the er, and it was found that both were very fond of the national game of baseball.

"It was back in the sixties," said Senator Hill. "when everybody was interested in baseball. There was a convention in New York city. The cities along the Atlantic coast attended. I was a delegate from Elmira, representing the Alerts. I remember that the Lowe. president of the convention knew nothing about parliamentary law, and it was not long before we were in a tangle and with no prospect of being extricated. Then they got a little fellow in the chair who knew all about the way to handle a convention, and he soon had things running smoothly. He held them down, I tell you. I forgot who he was and never recalled until after coming to Washington, when I was talking about the meeting with Senator Gorman, and he said he was there and presided. And he was. He represented the old Nationals of Washington."

While there are other senators who enjoy baseball, none are such devotees as Senators Hill and Gorman. The Maryland senator has not found time to indulge his inclination this season, as he has been too busy getting a tariff bill through the senate, which Senator Hill has been trying to defeat. Mr. Hill attends every game played here.-Washington Letter.

Women and Learning.

Statistics collected by the regents of the University of New York shows that HARPER'S MAUAZINE... in the secondary schools there are 28, 556 girls of academic grade and 18,243 boys. Last year more than two-thirds of the 488 honor certificates went to girls. In the colleges there are 2,928 girls and 4,048 in the professional and technical schools. Many other young women are studying law, medicine, painting and music. The United States census of 1890 gave the number of women teachers as 238,397. In their report upon these statistics the regents remark, The remarkable development of woman's higher education is due to widespread recognition that a college course is needed as the best preparation for wifehood, motherhood and home life as much as for a professional life."

If Guilty, Forgiveness Is Assured. The mortality among newspapers in the United States during the past 18 months has been something almost unprecedented. In New York state alone 273 newspapers suspended between June, 1893, and June, 1894. For the first time since 1869 the total number catalogued by the newspaper directory is less than for the preceding year. This is said to be due to hard times caused by the Democratic free trade panic, but this is one of the things for which that party will most assuredly be forgiven. If he who makes two blades of grass to grow where but one grew before is a penefactor of his kind, what shall be said of him who makes but one newspaper to desolate the community where there were three before?-San Francisco Argonaut.

A Kipling Story. This capital story some one tells of Kipling as illustrating very clearly the characteristics of the vigorous English boy who was afterward to achieve such widespread fame by his pen. When a boy of 12, he went on a voyage with his father, who, becoming desperately seasick, retired to his berth, leaving young Rudyard to his own devices. Presently the poor father heard a tremendous commotion over his head, and down the ompanionway dashed the boatswain, three steps at a time and shouting excitedly, "Mr. Kipling, your boy has crawled out on the yardarm, and if he lets go he'll drown sure."

"Yes," said Mr. Kipling, falling back on his pillow with a sigh of relief,
